PLANNING TO HOLD SCHOOL MEETINGS

COMMUNITY MEETINGS AT A NUMBER OF SCHOOLS APRIL 8-9

SHOW WORK BEING DONE

Pupils from Vitalized Agriculture Schools Will Demonstrate Work Being Done in Those Schools

County Superintendent Bert Cooper is planning on holding a series of community meetings in a number of rural schools over the county on April 8 and 9. It will be impossible to hold meetings in each school district and only a limited number of them will be held The following letter was sent out by Mr. Cooper recently to the teachers:

"On April 8 and 9, we will hold over the county in the rural schools a limited number of community gatherings. I think I can give your scchool one of these meetings if you want it and will let me know right away. There will be no cost to the district at all. Your children are asked to furnish four or five numbers in the program. You may decide what those numbers are to be. Recitations, songs, dialogues, etc.

"Vitalized Agriculture has taught us a great lesson and is now teaching others. It has made Nodaway county famous all over the U. S. Even South America and Russia have had representatives here to study the plan and to carry it back to these other countries. We have had calls for detailed information on the work from Alaska, and the leading educators from all parts of the United States have come to see our boys and girls do this work which the leading magazines of the continent claim is to revolutionize the rural school of every country. Every person who has come has gone away a booster. Many other states are adopting the plan and holding meetings in every community to acquaint their people with the work in Nodaway county, Mo. The pictures, letters, and the stories of our boys and girls and the fame of our teachers have gone every where.

"Many of our own people here at home do not fully understand just what Vitalized Agriculture is and what it does for the boys and girls. We have been flooded with requests for meetings and explanations of this work, so in each of these meetings some pupils from one of the Vitalized Agriculture schools will demonstrate school work and the teacher or some one else will briefly explain what Vitalized Agriculture means. Your children and these children will make a great program.

"The plan will be to hold one meeting at 10 o'clock in the morning at one rural school. The children and patrons of both schools will eat their lunch which they have brought with them here and pupils and patrons from both schools, or as many as can, will then go on to another rural school house for a meeting at 2:30 o'clock and all three schools furnish the program for the afternoon. A big meeting will be held at 8 o'clock at night in the community, participated in by all the schools.

"We will have to reserve the right to place your meeting at which ever one of these dates that fits the schedule. Each school will furnish its own transportation if it goes on the next school. This will be a great thing for your school; let's push it."

HOW TO MEET THE COST OF SCHOOLS

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OUTLINES PLAN TO SCHOOL BOARD

TO HIRE TEACHERS EARLY

With Adjoining States Bidding for Teachers Nodaway Schools are Urged to Supply Districts at Once

The following letter which makes more clear some of the problems of school boards, is being sent out by County Superintendent Bert Cooper to all the school boards of the county.

In as much as the school notices must be posted not later than March 22. I want to call your attention to Sec. 10797 of the new school law which provides that a district in the county may vote a levy of 65 cents for supplies and repairs in addition to their regular 65 cents levy and a district in town may vote a levy of 100 cents in addition to their regular 100 cents. This can be carried by a majority vote the same as the regular levy, and the attorney general holds that it can be used for incidentals after doing the needed repair work. This will enable all the school to vote funds enough this year to carry on their school and meet the increased expense.

Make your notices the same as here to fore, for the regular levy.

1 To vote a levy of 65 cents on the one hundred dollars assessed valuation of the district for school purposes

2 To vote a levy of 65 cents (or what ever is necessary) on the one hundred dollars assessed valuation of the district for furnishings and repairs.

Owing to the great shortage of teachers let me urge that you hire your teacher as early as possible. If your present teacher is not the one you want go after and hire another one and please do not wait for them to apply this year.

The way adjoining states are bidding for our teachers we shall to pay from 25 to 40 dollars per month more than last year to keep our good teachers and fill our schools. We now have three vacancies in the county and no teachers for them. Besides many of our schools are filled with teachers this year that should not be hired next year for their qualifications are too low. Practically every school in the country will need to carry some of this extra levy but this law will enable all to get funds enough to run a good school.

Below is a quotation from State Superintendent Baker's letter: "A repair levy may be carried by a majority vote and any balance in this fund may be transferred to the incidental fund. In such cases estimates should be made out placing the major part or even all, if necessary, of the regular maintenance levy in the teachers fund and use the unexpended balance of the repair fund for incidental expense. This levy, you understand, would be available the coming school year.

The After Effects of Pneumonia

This is No. 2 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's VapoRub may be of value in this condition.

Pneumonia attacks the air cells of the lungs. An inflammation is set up and matter is thrown off which causes the air cells to solidify, thus preventing the natural flow of blood thru the lungs. This "backing up" of the blood causes the heart to pump harder, just as stepping on a hose increases the water pressure, which is the reason why, during this disease, the physician watches the overburdened heart so carefully.

After recovery the lungs are filled with a mass of wreckage—the debris of the battle—which must be gotten rid of by a process known as resolution. Frequently, inflamed spots remain, congestion persists, cough hangs on, and the least exposure brings on a cold that is hard to get rid of. If neglected, such damaged air passages may easily develop serious disease of the lungs.

Such cases should always continue under a physician's care and frequent examinations should be made to see that nature is properly continuing the rebuilding process.

Nightly applications of Vick's VapoRub will aid nature in this work. Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition, the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, swallow a small bit of Vicks the size of a pea.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 232 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

BEAUTY OR BRAINS BEST FOR WOMEN?

CHARMS OF LANGTRY AND BERNHARDT COMPARED.

BEAUTY 'A SEASON PASS'

Divine Sarah at 76 Is Still Famous for Dramatic Power—Jersey Lily Passed Into Obscurity.

New York.—Which would you rather have—beauty or brains?

That query may remind you of childhood days, when you played wishing games, with the exception that then your breathless cross-examiner didn't propound any such inquiries.

That is, not any that would demand your consideration to such an extent that you'd hold up the game while trying to decide. Those days the choice was narrowed down to preference for a solid amethyst pianola or a Wild West suit with revolver trimmings.

If you were precocious, or old for your age, or large for your size, and read the Sunday supplements, you might have spent hours lying on the floor on your stomach, elbows in the feature section, trying to determine which of two reigning beauties and actresses you'd like to change places with.

Sarah Bernhardt, "The Divine Sarah," and Lily Langtry, the "Jersey Lily"—how exciting it was to read of their successes, conquests, milk baths, ideas of happiness and how to reach it, and so on!

Although both were good to gaze upon as dfamous women of the stage, it was conceded that with Sarah genius predominated, and with Lily beauty.

Beauty, in itself, always has been, as long as it lasted, a "season pass" to any game for its lucky possessor. Especially in the love and success games—and what others are there?

Lily Langtry, or Lady de Bathe, now sixty-six years old, only twenty years past her vogue, is casually mentioned in the day's news as one of the visitors at a winter resort.

Few of the present generations of readers are interested in the item, because few of them know who Langtry is or what her name once stood for.

On the other hand, the slightest event in which the name of the great Sarah is mentioned is sure to awaken a lively interest. At the movies enthusiasm is always displayed when a picture is flashed upon the screen showing some act or event in the veteran actress' life. It would be a task to discover an intelligent reader of this day who had never heard of Bernhardt.

And the difference consists in the fact that one woman had merely beauty and talent, while the other had relentless compelling force, driving her along to ceaseless effort and brilliant accomplishment.

Lily Langtry, a young English woman did not start in life as the "Jersey Lily." That title was acquired later when John Millais painted her portrait, giving it the title which became the owner's permanent sobriquet.

She was the daughter of Dean Le Breton, a minister. Born on the isle of Jersey in 1854, she grew to young womanhood without attracting any undue attention. It was not until several years later, after her marriage, when extravagance and reckless living led her and Edward Langtry, her husband, to consider ways and means of recuperating, that Mrs. Langtry decided to use upon the stage the beauty that already had brought social success to the young couple and had made many men pursue the Jersey Lily.

The great and the clever men of her day were her friends. Oscar Wilde, when he heard she was thinking of going into horticulture, was indignant, saying that the lily should not be trampled in the mud. The plan was abandoned. It was finally the wife of Henry Labouchere, who had herself been upon the stage, that talked the plan of a public career into the pretty blond head of Lily Langtry.

Prince Louis of Battenburg, Sir George Chetwynd, and no less a person than the Prince of Wales, who later, as King Edward, continued his friendship with the Lily, were her ardent admirers at this period.

Many amusing stories were told at this time about Mrs. Langtry and the Prince of Wales, tales invented, perhaps, by the envious. The most widely repeated of these, which the "Jersey Lily" in her own life story denies, attributing the happening to another, is that Mrs. Langtry once mischievously slipped a piece of ice down the back of the prince, upsetting his dignity and losing his friendship.

Other narrators tell of an occasion when Queen Victoria was quite ill and Lily Langtry said to Prince Edward:

"How's mother today?"

"Her Majesty the Queen is improving, thank you," was said to be the extremely reproving answer.

The Lily's visit to America was provocative of more love affairs, more admiration and more gossip. Freddie Gebhard, who, in those careless days had no income tax to pay on the $90,000 a year interest on his money, had a lot left over from running expenses to express his philanthropic interest in the fair-haired Britoness.

The "Divine Sarah," born in Paris in 1845, is still the greatest actress of this age. Beginning to act at the age of thirteen she was still able till the time of the operation which necessitated the loss of the leg to play ten performances a week.

Even that ordeal and its consequences did not impair her ambition and ability. With artificial aid she again appeared on the stage, and the latest reports of her career tell that she is now able, at seventy-six years of age, to act parts either reclining or in bed.

Making her debut in 1857 at the Comedie Francaise in "Iphigenie," she found later success in "Phedre," "Le Sphinx," "Ruy Blas," "Hernani," "L'Aiglon," "La Dame aux Camellias" and "Jeanne d'Arc."

She has made and spent millions on friends, on relatives, worthy persons and parasites. As well as being an actress she has found success as a sculptor, painter, musician and critic, some of her artistic endeavors having been hung in the Salon.

Several generations of theatergoers have been born, lived and died during the triumphs of Bernhardt's day. She has worked indefatigably and lived magnificently.

Her recipe for eternal youth is:

"Work ten months of the year and spend the other two at the seaside. Excercise freely and be altruistic."

In these last years of her life Sarah Bernhardt has been given the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor.

Her power and personality have outshone mere youth, beauty or the rivalry that comes to one not so sure from every passing talent.

LIME FOR ALFALFA. COLLEGE WILL TEST SOILS

Experiments in liming Alfalfa Conducted Jointly by University of Missouri and State Teachers College

In an experiment in liming alfalfa on the State Teachers college farm conducted jointly by the University of Missouri and the State Teachers college nine-tenths tons more alfalfa per acre was grown on limed plots during the season than on unlimed plots. Ground limestone was applied at the rate of 3000 pounds per acre four years ago. This was on a silt loam of considerable fertility.

Lime may be applied as quicklime, air slacked lime, or as ground lime stone however the latter is the cheapest and will last longer tho not so active as the other forms of lime. The benefit from ground limestone is not so apparent until the second or third season. From one and one half to tons of ground limestone applied once every 6 or 7 years should be sufficient for the average soil but it depends upon the acidity and the fertility of the soil.

Alfalfa may be grown on an acid soil provided it is fertile, but if the acidity is very strong lime will be beneficial or even necessary. Marshall Silt Loam in this county sometimes is acidity it will grow alfalfa without liming.

One method of determining soil acidity is by the litmus paper test, which consists of placing blue litmus paper between two pieces of moist soil and pressing the soil firmly against the paper. If the paper turns pink after five or ten minutes, the soil is acid. Avoid touching the paper or the soil with the hands as there may be acid on them. Tho this is a simple test is it not always satisfactory in the hands of the beginner. The test shows the soil acidity, but does not show the amount of lime necessary to correct the acidity.

The State Teachers college will test soils for acidity and determine the amount of lime necessary to correct the acidity, for any farmers in the district wanting such a test made. The State university likewise does this work gratis.

It should be remebered that soil acidity is not the only difficulty experienced in growing alfalfa. A well drained soil with a subsoil that the roots can penetrate is a requisite. Where alfalfa has not been grown before, inoculation is neccessary. Inoculation may be with soil from a field successfully growing alfalfa, or with artificial bacteria cultures; the latter may be secured at cost from the University of Missouri.

A salmon equipped with two mouths, each with teeth, has been caught in the lower Columbia River, and will be preserved and exhibited.

HUDSON SUPER-SIX

Isn't This the True Mark of Hudson Endurance?

No Stock Car Ever Equalled Its Official Records In Speed-Hill-Climbing, Acceleration, Endurance

In every performance asked of a motor Hudson's official records reveal greater ability than any other car has ever shown.

They have stood for five years. They are not held by hairs'-breadth, but by big, convincing margins, before which argument is dumb. They prove the master type, with limits of power speed, and endurance that none has matched to this day.

Yet if they stood for only contest supremacy, they would have small importance to you.

In all the years your Hudson serves, you will hardly require its full capacity. You do not want 80-mile-an-hour speed. You will scarcely encounter a situation to tax its limit of power.

These Qualities Count in Every Day Service

Of course, there is pride in possession of car qualities you know are unexcelled. And this performance mastery gives innumerable advantages. For instance, you travel faster within the speed limits. That is because you are away quicker. You pick-up faster. You have power that levels hills with ease. You have smoothness that makes the long journey comfortable and free of fatigue.

But you will have far more occasions to admire Hudson's superb riding ease, its good looks, and its trustworthy dependability, than its more spectacular qualities of great speed and power.

So, it is chiefly as they reveal its basic principle of supremacy—the control of vibration—that the Super-Six's world famous records are important.

The exclusive Super-Six motor adds no weight or size. Yet it adds 72% to power, and 80% to efficiency. It almost doubles endurance. It does this by converting to useful power the destructive force of vibration, which uncontrolled quickly undermines motor endurance.

That is why the Super-Six can go faster, farther and lasts longer.

These are official proofs. All can verify them.

Endurance Gave it Mastery On the Speedway

Nothing shows the dominance of the Super-Six principle more clearly than its world success in high-speed racing. It was never intended for a racing car. Yet, pitted against the world's fastest cars, some of which cost as high as $25,000, the Super-Six won, time after time, because it could maintain the terrific pace without self-destruction.

Ever since Hudson made those records it has been the largest selling fine car in the world. Each year the demand increases. By no possibility will all who want Hudsons be able to get them.

You should place your order now for your Hudson, even though delivery is not desired until summer.

That Well-Dressed Look

That Remains Throughout The Season

Every Wooltex garment in addition to the quality of design and material has on the inside many hidden merits that make the "well dressed look that lasts" six months from now, if you get one of our new Coats or Suits, you will have sure proof that you bought quality under the surface as well as style on the outside.

Briarcliff No. 4010

An attractive type of a knockabout Suit which is very youthful in its lines and good for slender and medium figures. Made in Scotch Tweed. This Suit is ideal for motoring and walking and all outdoor purposes. Notice how the all-around belt holds the fulness of the jacket to the figure while just below on the hip line are pockets with square flaps. Particular attention is called to the upturned fold which runs across the back of the skirt of the coat in order to relieve the straight back. Tiny pipings may be seen at belt, collar and bound button holes. See how the skirt follows out the idea of the jacket with its upturned fold of mannish pockets. A real knockabout Suit in every sense—material, the pockets, the collar and every detail enter into its convenience for that purpose.

Priced at $69.00
Other Suits at $45.00 to $95.00

Pinehurst No. 1055

This is a jaunty little sport Coat made in the new Angora Polo material. Notice the individual side flare which is Parisian in its origination and called the "Etendu." An all-round belt fastened with ivory links and tiny pockets add to its newness and charm. This Coat will have a tremendous appeal to the young girl and the slender woman who looks her best in youthful styles.

Priced at $45.00

Many other models in Spring Coats at $20.00 to $100.00

Training Fish Worms.

Peru, Ind.—Mrs. Guy Huntington, seventy three, expects to be among the first Hoosiers to open the Spring fishing season. She has a tubful of "fish worms" in training. Last fall she planted a quart of angleworms in a tub in her cellar and she has been fattening them for months on an occasional dinner of dishwater. She expects to entice a nice string of "goggle eyes" on her first angling expedition.

REFUGE SPOTS FOR ELOPERS

Fleet Prison and Gretna Green Were Highly Desirable Places in the Olden Time.

Gretna Green, whose chief industry was once matrimony, is a village in Scotland less than a mile from the River Sark, which marks the English-Scottish boundary line in that vicinity, near the Solway firth. The English marriage laws sent eloping couples to Scotland just as the divorce laws of 47 of our states make Reno desirable for would-be divorcees, and therein lies Gretna Green's first claim to fame.

Fleet prison was the figurative "Gretna Green" of England until the passage of the famous Hardwicke act of 1754, which made unauthorized marriages voidable. Gretna Green thereupon becoming the romance spot of the British isles. All the Scottish law required was that two persons should declare their intention to be married in the presence of witnesses, and the British law then, as now, recognizes marriages as legal so long as they conformed to the laws in the places where they were performed.

During the three decades when Gretna Green flourished there were more than 7,000 marriages recorded there, nearly 800 of which were performed in 1855, the year before Scotland enacted a law which made a three weeks' residence a requisite to marriage. Marriage by declaration is still legal in Scotland.

PARIS STYLES FOUGHT BY ORGANIZED SOCIETY

American Federation of Women's Clubs Asked to Join Protest Against Modern Styles.

Paris.—The chief designer for Poiret's the most fashionable dressmaking firm in Paris, was highly amused when asked if the exclusive Parisian houses dealing in gowns were alarmed at the world wide campaign against immodest feminine attire, which has just been launched by the society women.

"One cannot legislate feminine fashions" said the designer. "We only make what our clients want. Why, sometimes even after we complete a gown, the lady for whom it was made complains that the corsage is not law enough, even though it was exaggerated in the first place, and the skirt is too long to display all her charm. Sometimes the mother of a girl will make this complaint when the gown is for the daughter. And that is not all—sometimes the husband demands it."

The new organization is making immodest attire in the ballroom only one feature of its campaign. It is also starting a movement against nudity on the stage. One Paris musical show where a dancer appears nearly naked has come in for a particularly bitter attack from the reformers.

The American Federation of Womens clubs and similar organizations in all the civilized countries of the globe will be invited to participate in the campaign. The French organization, numbering many of the leading suffrage workers of the country, will call for an exchange of views on the part of women of every nation, with a view of adopting an international appeal against prevailing fashions and some theatrical productions.

Mme. Germaine Marcille, one of the leaders in the French movement for dress reform said that nearly forty womens organizations have signed the societys first circular of protest to the big dressmakers. She believes the movement will have a big effect on next winters styles.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Gray went to St. Joseph this morning.

It's Garden Planting Time Now.

The hosts of town dwellers armed with packets of garden seeds and awaiting the word to charge against the high cost of living will find victory perched on their banners next fall if they fight valiantly throughout the summer. Old H. C. L. has many comrades, but the entire enemy army can be routed if each detachment is met and overcome as it swings into action. So Mr. Town Dweller and Mr. Farmer who are anxious to grow a garden to relieve the strain on their pocketbooks, must get into fighting form right now.

The battle ground should have been prepared last fall. If you did not prepare it the enemy has the jump on you. Do it now and maneuver the enemy into it. His first attack will be made by his Late Spring division. Counter it by planting onions, peas, parsnips, Spinach and Salsify in the front line trenches. They can be depended upon to withstand this force through early March. Later in the month throw reinforcements into the garden ground by planting Carrots, Beets, Turnips and Potatoes. As the battle waxes warmer, early in April, plant Sweet Corn and Beans in the road of the enemy. The last reserves for spring defense will be found in Lima Beans, Okra, Cucumbers and Melons. These plantings should not be found necessary before late May.

With this army of defenders, properly supplied with food and drink, the high cost of living should receive a severe set back. The final thrust at the enemy to be made in late summer when the fall garden is planted. If help at any time is needed, write to the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Columbia.

Ford Music.

One Ford car with piston rings, two rear wheels and one front spring, has no fenders, seat or plank, burns lots of gas, hard to crank. Carburetor busted half way through, engine missing, hits in two. Three years old, four in the spring, has shock absorbers and everything; radiator busted, sure does leak, differentials dry, you can hear it squeak. Ten spokes missing, front all bent, tires blowed out, ain't worth a cent; got lots of speed, will run like the dence, burns either gas or tobacco juice. Tires all off, been run on rim, a damn good Ford for the shape it's in.—Exchange.

Mrs. R. A. Strawbridge left today for Quincy Ill., for an extended visit with relatives.

"DON'T POWDER FACES," PHOTOGRAPHERS WARN GIRLS.

Atlantic City, N. J.—"Don't powder your faces, girls, if you want to look beautiful in camera portraits."

This was the surprising injunction imparted at the "society matinee" of the Photographers' Association of the Middle Atalntic States by Will H. Towles of Washington. Pirie Macdonald of New York created a second stir by announcing that more simplicity and less falttery were things that would contribute to better photography. Mr. Macdonald at the business session of the convention warned against creating a "Soviet."

Profit-sharing with employes came in for an extensive discussion, several delegates saying that such "dividends" had increased business as high as 60 per cent.

Mr. ad Mrs. Jame Joyce went to St. Joseph this morning.

A marriage license was issued today to Everett L. Crites and Mary E. Bearce, both of Burlington Junction.

F. W. Crow went to Kansas City this morning to attend a Photographer's convention, being held there this week.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Model T One Ton Truck is in reality a necessity to the wide awake retail grocer, not only for the economic solution of the delivery problem, but for the bringing of goods from the docks or stations to his place of business, and for traversing the country and bringing in produce. For years the Ford One Ton Truck with its splendid manganese bronze worm-drive, powerful Ford Model T Motor, strong Vanadium steel frame, has been serving in every line of business activity, and we have yet to hear the first complaint as to rear axle trouble or motor trouble. It has the lowest purchase price on the market, and the cost for operating and maintaining is exceedingly small. In fact, the Ford One Ton Truck has become a business necessity. Leave your order with us without delay. We will give you prompt attention and assure you reasonably prompt delivery, and give you an after service that will insure your continuous operation of the Truck.
